The Teens Cook with Heart Program

To achieve its 2020 goal, the American Heart and Stroke Association is committed to facilitate a dramatic change in the way Americans eat and prepare food. To accomplish this change, the American Heart Association has created the Teens Cook with Heart program to educate high school students about the importance of cooking healthy, to motivate them about creating healthy recipes, and to empower them with healthy alternatives into the careers of future chefs and their guests.

Our Focus

Teens Cook with Heart focuses on 3 major behavioral changes to combat the obesity epidemic; increase awareness about healthy eating, decrease the use of ingredients high in fat, sugar, and cholesterol in their recipes, and increase the use of ingredients high in fiber and nutrients. Through teaching culinary students the importance of healthy cooking we expect to see improvements in the culinary world and as a result a decline in obesity in the upcoming years.

Our Reach

The Clark County School District has incorporated the TCWH program into their culinary curriculum and it is available to all high schools that have the culinary program. Thanks to this accomplishment we will be impacting more than 3,500 students, plus their families and teachers.

Outcomes

Our outcomes are not limited to:

- Decrease the number of students who believe that:
 - Cooking healthy food is expensive
 - Cooking healthy food is too time consuming
 - Cooking healthy is boring
- Decrease consumption of ingredients high in Trans and saturated fats, sodium, and sugars, in food preparation
- Increase healthy menus in restaurants
- Increase consumption of whole grains, good fats, and ingredients high in nutrients
